Duty to uphold the Constitution in the public service

Announcement of the Bavarian Government relating to the duty to uphold the constitution in the civil service (Verfassungstreue – VerftöD) of 3 December 1991 (StAnz. number 49, FMBl. p. 510, AIIMBl. p. 895), revised according to the Announcement of 6 December 1994 (StAnz. number 49, AIIMBl. p. 1004), Announcement of 6 November 2001 (StAnz. number 46, AIIMBl. p. 658), Announcement of 25 July 2002 (AIIMBl. p. 619, amended on 2 April 2003, AIIMBl. p. 135), and Announcement of 27 November 2007 (StAnz. number 50, AIIMBl. p. 693).

I.

1. In accordance with the Basic Law, the Constitution of Bavaria, the Beamtenrechtsrahmengesetz and the Bayerischen Beamengesetz
 - only those who pledge to uphold the principles of liberal democracy set forth in the Basic Law and Constitution of Bavaria at all times are eligible for employment as a civil servant (Beamte);
 - civil servants are obligated to actively uphold and defend these principles, whether on duty or off duty.These regulations are mandatory.
2. Each case must be examined and appraised individually. The following guiding principles provide the basis for making a decision.

2.1 Applicant

- 2.1.1 No applicant who becomes involved in anti-constitutional activities shall be hired as a public servant.
- 2.1.2 Membership in an organization that pursues unconstitutional goals is grounds for doubting that the applicant will uphold and defend the principles of liberal democracy at all times.
- 2.1.3 Any applicant who violates the principles of humanity or rule of law or who worked for the Ministry for State Security (Ministerium für Staatssicherheit) or for the Office for National Security (Amt für Nationale Sicherheit) of the former GDR (East Germany) is ineligible for employment in the public service.

2.2 Civil Servant (Beamte)

- If a civil servant fails to meet the requirements set forth in Article 62 of BayBG (stipulating the duty to uphold and defend the principles of liberal democracy at all times), then the employer is to examine the case and take the appropriate steps, verifying in particular, whether the public servant's dismissal should be sought.
3. The same principles hold for workers (Arbeiter) and public employees (Angestellte) in the public service under the terms of the general regulations for these groups.

II.

The Bavarian Government has reinforced the commitment of all public employers in Bavaria to these principles.
The following decisions have been made with regard to enforcing these principles:

1. The applicant shall be given the instructions and information contained in Annex 1 prior to his or her hiring. The applicant shall also be given a list of extremist organizations and organizations influenced by extremists. On the basis of this list, the applicant shall complete the questionnaire contained in Annex 2 and subsequently sign the declaration in Annex 3. Persons who were employed in Bavaria's civil service within a period of three years prior to the current employment period shall not be examined again, barring suspicious circumstances. However, in case of suspicious circumstances that have not yet been examined, items 1 through 6 shall be carried out again. In either case, the applicant shall sign the declaration contained in Annex 4.

If the questionnaire is not signed or is incomplete and this leads to doubt concerning the applicant's loyalty to the constitution, an examination of loyalty to the constitution will generally require obtaining relevant information from the Landesamt für Verfassungsschutz (with the applicant's consent). The relevant information shall additionally be obtained from the Bundesbeauftragten für die Unterlagen des Staatssicherheitsdienstes der ehemaligen Deutschen Demokratischen Republik for applicants from the acceding territory of the former GDR referred to in § 20 para 1 number 6 item (d), item (h) and § 21 para 1 number 6 item (d), item (h) of the StUG.

2. If the applicant refuses to sign the declaration in Annex 3 or Annex 4 or if suspicion arises in connection with the answers provided in the questionnaire, or if there are other reasons to doubt that the applicant would uphold and defend the principles of liberal democracy as set forth in the Basic Law and Bavarian constitution at all times, then this suspicion must be allayed prior to hiring the applicant. In particular, this involves:

–contacting the Landesamt für Verfassungsschutz, to enquire whether facts are known which would speak against hiring the applicant. The Landesamt für Verfassungsschutz is obligated to reply to such requests without delay. If information is presented, only those details which concern facts that could be used as evidence in a court of law are to be used.

–contacting the Bundesbeauftragten für die Unterlagen des Staatssicherheitsdienstes der ehemaligen Deutschen Demokratischen Republik for applicants from the acceding territory of the former GDR referred to in § 20 para 1 number 6 item (d), item (h) and § 21 para 1 number 6 item (d), item (h) of the StUG (with the consent of the applicant).

–contacting the Zentrale Beweismittel und Dokumentationsstelle der Landesjustizverwaltungen (with the consent of the applicant).

3. For those applicants born prior to 12 January 1972 and who are from the acceding territory of the former GDR referred to in § 20 para 1 number 6 item (d), item (h) and § 21 para 1 number 6 item (d), item (h) of the StUG, the Bundesbeauftragte für die Unterlagen des Staatssicherheitsdienstes der ehemaligen Deutschen Demokratischen Republik shall always be contacted (with the consent of the applicant) to ensure the applicant did not carry out any activities for the Ministerium für Staatssicherheit or the Amt für nationale Sicherheit der früheren DDR.

The applicant's appointment shall be revoked if he or she is shown to have falsely denied working for the Ministerium für Staatssicherheit or the Amt für Nationale Sicherheit der früheren DDR (Article 15 BayBG).

Alternatively, applicants from the acceding territory may be hired for a fixed term of 12 months, subject to the results of the examination, as long as there are urgent official reasons for doing so and no suspicious circumstances are known. The limited-term nature of the contract is due to the examination that is being carried out. If extension of the contract is to be refused due to the results of the examination, the employment relationship shall be cancelled as soon as possible or legally challenged on the basis of wilful deceit (§ 123 BGB), as long as this is not rendered superfluous by the expiration of the employment agreement.

4. In the case of applicants who were born in or who bear the nationality of one of the countries listed below, the Landesamt für Verfassungsschutz shall always (in contrast to item 2) be contacted with the consent of the applicant:

Afghanistan, Egypt, Algeria, Bahrain, Bangladesh, Eritrea, Indonesia, Iraq, Iran, Israel (Palestinians), Yemen, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Mauritania, Oman, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, Tadzhikistan, Tunisia, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan, United Arab Emirates.

The same holds for applicants who do not hold any citizenship (so-called "stateless" persons) or whose citizenship status is unclear.

5. If the suspicion cannot be allayed, the applicant shall be invited to make a statement on the issue. If doubt persists following this statement, the applicant shall not be hired as a civil servant. Neither shall the applicant be hired as a civil servant if he or she refuses to provide consent in items 3 or 4.

6. ¹⁾If hiring the applicant as a public servant is denied because the applicant does not pledge to uphold and defend the principles of liberal democracy as set forth in the Basic Law, the applicant shall be informed of the decision and the reasons therefor in writing. ²⁾If this decision applies to the employment of the applicant as a judge or a public servant (Beamte), then instructions concerning the applicant's right to appeal shall also be included.

7. If there is suspicion that a public servant is violating the obligation to uphold the constitution, his or her employer shall consider whether legal measures are to be taken to ensure that he or she fulfills this duty or whether the person in question should be dismissed.

8. The Bavarian Ministry of the Interior has compiled a list of the most important extremist organizations and organizations influenced by extremists. This list has been published in the Allgemeines Ministerialblatt and in the Bayerischer Staatsanzeiger. The Ministry of the Interior shall update this list as needed.

9. In cases in which item 6 or item 7 apply, the highest public authority, as well as the Ministry of the Interior and the Ministry of Finance, are to be informed and kept up to date regarding any further developments.

III.

The regulations given above are recommended for use by the municipalities, municipal associations and other legal entities that are subject to the supervision of the Bavarian Government.

IV.

This Announcement shall take effect on 1 January 1992. It replaces the Bekanntmachung der Bayerischen Staatsregierung über die Pflicht zur Verfassungstreue im öffentlichen Dienst of 17 March 1973 (StAnz. number 16, FMBl. p. 149).

Employee's name

Instructions concerning duty to uphold the constitution in the public service

According to the Bayerischen Beamten gesetz, civil servants (or Beamte) must abstain from any actions or conduct that go against their allegiance to, and duty to uphold, the principles of liberal democracy laid out in the Basic Law and the Bavarian constitution. Any anti-constitutional activities, and in particular, affiliation with any party, association or organization that rejects or opposes the principles of liberal democracy laid out in the Basic Law and the Bavarian constitution are thus incompatible with this duty (Art. 62 para 2 of the Bayerischen Beamten gesetz).

For this reason, only those who pledge that they represent the liberal democratic principles of the Basic Law and the Bavarian constitution can be appointed as civil servants under the terms of Art. 9 para 1 number 2 of the Beamten gesetz.

The same rules apply to judges in Germany (§9 number 2 of the Richter gesetz; Art. 2 para 1 of the Bayerischen Richter gesetz in connection with Art. 62 para 2 of the Bayerischen Beamten gesetz).

The employee's duty to uphold the liberal democratic principles of the Basic Law is based on § 3 para 1 sentence 2 of TV-L.

According to the decisions of the Federal Constitutional Court, the principles of liberal democracy as set out in the Basic Law are principles that exclude tyranny and despotism and foster freedom, equality, and the people's right to self-determination - to follow the will of the majority (cf. decision of 23 October 1952 - Az. I BvB I 51 – Compilation of the decisions of the Federal Constitutional Court vol. 2 p. 1 ff - ; decision of 17 August 1956 - Az. I BvB 2 51 - Compilation of the decisions of the Federal Constitutional Court vol. 3 p.85ff -). The principles of liberal democracy stand in stark contrast to the totalitarian state, which as an absolute power, rejects freedom, equality, and human dignity. The key principles involved are as follows:

Respect for human rights as concretized in the Basic Law; especially, respect for the right of the individual to life and freedom of personal development, sovereignty of the people,
division of powers,
accountability of the government,
legality of the administration,
independence of the courts,
the multiple party principle,
equal opportunities for all political parties,
the right to form and exercise opposition in the framework of the constitution.

Participation in activities that go against the aforementioned principles characteristic of a liberal democratic system is not compatible with the duty of a public servant, regardless of whether or not such activities are carried out within an organization.

Applicants who take part in or support anti-constitutional activities are not eligible for public service positions.

Civil servants and judges who commit such a breach of duty should be aware that disciplinary action will be taken against them with the goal of removing them from service.

In such cases, the employee will be issued an extraordinary notice of dismissal pursuant to § 626 para 1 of the German Civil Code.

Loyalty to the constitution in the public service;
